AUSTRALIA

Winegrowing Region

Australia's main vineyard produce is Shiraz, followed by Chardonnay. The two varieties make up 44% of the total wine production. It gave the country a supporting role on the international wine stage, but great efforts have been made to diversify production in recent years – with Chardonnay, Cabernet Sauvignon, Pinot Noir and Sauvignon Blanc all now playing a part. On any Australia wine map, the largest wine-producing region by far is South Australia – where half of the nation's vineyards can be found, encouraged by a Mediterranean climate created near the coastal areas.

The best wine regions in Australia are concentrated around the city of Adelaide, including Barossa Valley. The Barossa Valley is arguably the most prestigious wine country in Australia. With a German-influenced wine-growing heritage dating back to 1842, this region in South Australia has some of the world's oldest vineyards and is internationally recognized for its Shiraz. The red clay soil in South Australia's Coonawarra region is Australia's most famous terroir and is perfect for creating exceptional Cabernet Sauvignon styles.

Established in 1988, Penley Estate is one of Coonawarra's leading wineries, and one of the country's premium growers and makers of Cabernet, Shiraz and red blends. The winery was born from the marriage of two pioneering wine families, the Penfold's and the Tolley's, two pioneering South Australian wine families. Today the estate is owned by 5th generation family members, sisters Ang & Bec Tolley, and like their ancestors they are strong, resilient and determined women.

Established in 2006, the Hesketh Wine Company is a small, family owned producer of high quality, yet accessible wines. They work with their own growers and process their own wines like traditional wineries. Their approach is to remain focused on the individual strengths of different South Australian growing regions.

Specific vineyards – Each wine is either made from a single vineyard or sourced from a small selection of specific vineyards in each region.

House style – Wines are made to a 'Hesketh' style, which is based on balance and complexity but more importantly, 'drinkability'. Wines with generous flavours and aromatics, which also retain a sense of place – wines which reflect the vineyards they are grown in.

Established in 2002, St John's Road was born of a chance encounter between founders Martin & Vivienne Rawlinson and a Saint-Émilion vigneron looking to purchase vineyards in Barossa, with a vision to produce full flavoured, yet elegant, wines which reflect the essence of the Barossa.

Today, St John's Road is a celebration of what the Barossa does best. Eden Valley's high-altitude elegance and structure is personified in the pristine Peace of Eden Riesling. Whilst the warmer Valley floor is perfectly represented by the Blood & Courage Shiraz and its Grenache based siblings. These wines are modern Barossa. An abundance of flavour with elegance, style and longevity.

NEW ZEALAND

Winegrowing Region

New Zealand reigns as the “Sauvignon Blanc capital of the world” with nearly 50,000 acres planted throughout the country. On the whole, Chardonnay, Pinot Noir, Riesling, and Pinot Gris have accompanied Sauvignon Blanc among New Zealand’s world-class wines that are produced from several distinct regions across the New Zealand wine map. What’s interesting is New Zealand’s unparalleled commitment to sustainability. This is no small feat, considering it's harder to be organic in a cool climate.

Marlborough - Without doubt, the best-known New Zealand wine region, and the one that put them on the international map nearly 30 years ago, thanks to the distinctive expression of Sauvignon Blanc.

Hawke’s Bay - a small region, but an important one! Home to many of the country’s finest wineries. It is the second largest wine-growing region in the country behind Marlborough and produces largely Chardonnay accompanied by some brilliant Syrah. For such a small spot on the New Zealand wine map, the island produces an impressive array of styles.

Founded by brothers Theo, Alex, and Marcel in 1981, family owned Giesen Group of New Zealand has been an industry leader for nearly four decades. Based in Marlborough, the Giesen family produces wine to be enjoyed at every occasion, from their highly awarded organic Clayvin Single Vineyard wines to the widely successful Giesen Estate wines range. Since 2009 Giesen Wines has made a significant investment in organics, which by 2017 has resulted in 11% of the company's Marlborough vineyards being Certified Organic with BioGro New Zealand. Whilst 11% of their vineyards are certified organic, they are committed to organics philosophy and culture throughout their entire viticulture programme with all of our fruit being sustainably grown.

UNITED STATES

Winegrowing Region

The United States has a short history in winemaking when compared to many other big names, but it's made up for its youth with vigor. The U.S. is 4th worldwide for wine production, and every state has some wineries. Best known for Chardonnay and Cabernet Sauvignon.

The relatively cool and mild climate of the Pacific Northwest makes it the most Europe-like of North America's wine-growing regions. The effects of the cooling marine winds off the Pacific Ocean and the dynamic range of volcanic soils that span our island hill chain in the heart of the Willamette Valley help to define the wines of the Eola-Amity Hills. These high winds translate to cooler temperatures in the Eola-Amity Hills allowing the fruit more time to hang on the vine while retaining bright acidity and fruit aromatics.

Napa Valley is America's most celebrated wine region. It was officially recognized for its high-quality wines and distinctive regional terroir when it became California's first American Viticultural Area (AVA) in 1981. While Napa Valley is mostly known for its prodigious Cabernet Sauvignon production, growing conditions are favorable for a wide range of grapes.

Cristom Vineyards was established in 1992 by the Gerrie family to grow and craft distinguished wines of place that honour individual sites and old-world techniques. Family-owned thirty years later, they remain stewards focused on growing benchmark Pinot Noir and Chardonnay. Bringing together biodynamic and organic farming methods, they farm the land with the next 100-years in mind. Their winegrowing centers on the philosophy that the greatest expression of terroir produces the finest wines.

CHILE

Winegrowing Region

Chile is one of South America's most significant wine producers and possesses a vast range of wine styles grown in a surprising range of terroir for such a small country. Chile is a thin strip of land sandwiched between the Pacific Ocean and the Andes mountains. Primarily growing Chardonnay and Syrah.

Its position creates a massive air conditioner effect – sucking cool ocean air inland. Each wine region has 3 unique growing zones: The Costas, Entre Cordilleras and Los Andes. The coastal regions are best suited for cool-climate grapes like Pinot Noir and Chardonnay; Sauvignon Blanc grows well here too! The inland valleys are warmest and known for their soft and supple Bordeaux Blends. The high-elevation Andes create wines with more structure (tannin and acidity) and this has led to intriguing Syrah, Cabernet Franc, Malbec and Cabernet Sauvignon.

The French were excited by the prospects of Chile's ideal climate and soils for fine wines and invested in the region early on. Their influence shaped Chile's wine market towards a focus on Bordeaux varieties like Merlot and Cabernet, focusing heavily on exports.

Established in 1936, Vina Luis Felipe Edwards is undeniably one of the most progressive wineries in Chile. Always keen to invest in land, technology and people, the Colchagua Valley based operation sits nestled amongst the Alamos trees, separated from the colossal Andes by the smaller San Fernando ridge. The winery produces over 3 million cases (9lt) per year and exports to over 100 countries, making it a major global player. Luis Felipe Edwards remains a family run operation, allowing greater control to ensure that the LFE brand name is synonymous with quality and traditional family values.

ARGENTINA

Winegrowing Region

If you love Malbec, Argentina is your ultimate wine region. Argentina has the highest altitude vineyards in the world and is renowned for its supply Malbec wines that range from affordable to ultra-high-end. Mendoza is the largest, and most important wine region, accounting for 75% of Argentina's vineyards.

Red wines are the focus here and certain areas stand out above the rest in terms of quality. For example, the sub-regions of Maipú, Luján de Cuyo and Uco Valley have the highest elevations. This means that grapes have increased sun exposure resulting in thicker skins and wines that are not only well-structured and fruit-forward but concentrated. It is these characteristics that put Argentina on the map through their Malbec — a red wine with dark fruit flavors and a smoky finish.

Mendel wines classically combine Roberto de la Mota's prestigious winemaking skills and tremendously old vineyards to make Mendoza's most elegant wines. Proprietor and long-time wine lover, Anabelle Sielecki, partnered with Roberto to transform her family's historic 1928 vineyard into the respected estate it is today. She honors her father, a hardworking immigrant and successful businessman, by putting his first name, Mendel, on the label.

Using his French winemaking experience, Roberto has led Argentina's winemaking movement toward world-class production. The finesse and elegance in his wines are revered and respected.

SOUTH AFRICA

Winegrowing Region

Explore the most significant examples of Old World meets New World. What makes South Africa unique is its warm climate paired with ancient granite soils (over 600 million years old) which results in bold red and white wines with high aromatic intensity.

Did you know? Stellenbosch is the birthplace of Pinotage, South Africa's very own grape variety. Created in 1925, Pinotage is a cross between Pinot Noir and Cinsault. Its notoriety began when Kanonkop Pinotage won the Robert Mondavi Trophy for the Best Red Wine at the '91 International Wine and Spirits Competition in London.

Plus, South Africa produced one of the world's most famous wines during the early 1700 (before Cabernet Sauvignon became famous!). The country's Chenin Blanc-based dessert wine, Constantia, was famous across Europe. Today the story is changing. South African wines have emerged as both some of the best-valued red and white wines and of the highest quality. If you love Cabernet Sauvignon, start looking for South Africa's hot values!

Established in 1685 by the Cape's first Governor, Simon van der Stel, Klein Constantia is one of South Africa's most famous wine producers, located in Constantia in the hills above Cape Town. It is most famous for its flagship wine, the naturally sweet Vin de Constance made from Muscat Blanc à Petits Grains. This historic wine was a favourite of the courts of Europe in the 19th Century. The perfect location for cool climate wines, the estate also produces excellent dry wines made from Sauvignon Blanc, Chardonnay and Cabernet Sauvignon.

Kanonkop is a 4th generation family-owned wine estate, renowned for its red wines, with Pinotage making up 50% of all plantings. Their Pinotage vines were some of the first commercially planted Pinotage to be established in the Cape and most are over 50 years old. Optimum ripeness plays a major role in producing good red wine and on the estate a careful check is done to ensure that the grapes are picked at perfection.

Winemaking at Kanonkop follows the age-old tradition of being made in open concrete fermenters, but with a slight difference, the tanks are wide and shallow, rather high and deep. All cellaring, bottling and labelling is done on Kanonkop.

FRANCE

Winegrowing Region

France is a country synonymous with fine wine and as any map of French wine regions will show, there are vineyards scattered throughout the country that are responsible for producing between seven and eight billion bottles a year.

While even the most elementary wine drinker will recognize the likes of Bordeaux, Burgundy and Champagne through their historic winemaking traditions, wines are commercially produced in every region of France except those along the north coast. Nonetheless, France produces over 3,000 different wines across two million hectares of vineyards.

Generally speaking, the French wine region's map can be divided into northern vineyards that are reputed for white wines, and southern vineyards (with the exception of the Jura and Savoy) that are more renowned for their reds. The main wine areas of the French wine region map are Bordeaux, Burgundy, Languedoc, Champagne, the Loire Valley, Alsace, Rhône, Provence and Corsica.

Philipponnat is a historic French Champagne house owned by the family of the same name, whose wine history in the region dates back to 16th Century when the family's work as negotiators and merchants supplied wine to the court of Louis XIV.

Although the family can trace its Champagne roots back to 1522, the modern house was founded in 1910 by Pierre Philipponnat, and is now run by Charles Philipponnat. It is a small but highly respected Champagne house, producing only about 650,000 bottles of Champagne, from the Brut Royale Reserve, the true ambassador of the House, to its famous single-plot-vineyard Champagne: Clos des Goisses.

The origins of the wine-growing business in the Beaumont family goes back over seven generations. Thierry Beaumont took over in 1991, creating the name Domaine des Beaumont. Under his talented leadership, the domaine has been transformed from a modest under-the-radar producer to a hidden gem amongst Burgundy collectors.

Now established in the three villages of Morey-Saint-Denis (the headquarter), Gevrey-Chambertin and Chambolle-Musigny, the estate has constantly invested in modern work tools, without neglecting the cultural, wine practices used by their ancestors. Practicing reasoned and sustainable viticulture, each grape and each bottle is cared for here by the hand of the winemaker.

Domaine de la Madone is located in the heart of Beaujolais in the Beaujolais Villages area. The vineyard spreads over 28 ha over two villages, Le Perréon and Vaux en Beaujolais (better known as "Clochemerle"). The estate is divided into 90 small plots of different exposures and altitudes (between 300 and 500 m). With vines ranging from 15 years to more than 100 years (40 years old on average). Gamay is planted on South facing steep slopes on pink granite soils; this diversity of terroirs is key to enable the Beraerd brothers to craft complex wines with depth and soul. On the Northern facing slopes, one can find the estates parcels of Chardonnay, this grape expressing more elegance on those more clay soils. A part of the estate (2.5 ha) is now fully organic while the rest is trained using sustainable viticulture methods.

"This is a fantastic Beaujolais Villages that would embarrass many crus."

Domaine Weinbach is an icon of the Alsace wine region, a pioneer of biodynamic viticulture and winemaking, and producer of some of the world's greatest aromatic wines. Located the foot of the majestic Schlossberg hill, Domaine Weinbach is a "stream of wine", named after the small brook that traverses the vineyard, it, was built in 1612 by the Capuchin monks.

The estate has been in the Faller family since 1898, which produces mainly Grand Cru. The fame may go to the imposing Schlossberg GC but equal renown should be extended to the walled Clos de Capucins that surrounds the winery and the Furstentum GC, celebrated for exceptional Gewurztraminer. Viticulture has been organic for many years but a conversion to biodynamics culminated in certification for the 2006 vintage onwards.

Founded in 1905, this estate has been owned and run by the Daumen family ever since. Domaine de la Vieille Julienne is located in the northern end of the Châteauneuf-du-Pape appellation, in sector known as Le Grès. Since 1990, when Jean-Paul Daumen took over from his father, he converted to biodynamic farming in 1998.

Low yields are the goal at Vieille Julienne. They are often under 20 hectoliters per hectare, which gives the wine a lot of its power, purity and concentration. The grapes are de-stemmed before alcoholic fermentation and all grapes are co-fermented. Aging takes place in a combination of foudres and old, oak barrels.

DOMAINE BOISSON **NEW WINERY****

FRANCE
SOUTHERN RHONE

The origins of the property date back to the mid 19th Century when the farm was made up of different cultures (meadow, garden, cereals, olive trees, vines, etc.). After WWII, René Boisson (Bruno's grandfather) developed the business. Following the 1956 frost, he decided to replace the frozen olive trees with vines and bought a 10 hectare wood in Lardard-Paréol to cultivate. In 1957, René Boisson left the Cave Coopérative to create his own cellar.

Le Pompon is a tribute to the last Mule of the estate belonging to Bruno's grandfather, it was used to plough the vineyards, carry the harvest and many other things at the time, once the first tractors arrived at the estate it was replaced but that faithful hard working companion still remains in our hearts and minds.

ITALY

Winegrowing Region

Italian wine is one of the most difficult regions to get to know.

Why? Well for one, the Italians use an esoteric wine labeling system, much like the French. With more than 350 official wine varieties and 20 different wine-producing regions, there are 3 major regions that produce high-quality wines and they are: Veneto, Tuscany, and Piedmont!

There are some key DOCGs sought after by wine lovers around the globe, such as Barolo, Barbaresco and Brunello di Montalcino, and other well-recognized wines like Amarone della Valpolicella, Prosecco, Chianti, Soave and Franciacorta, there are plenty of new wines from the center and the south gaining in popularity – Primitivo, Nero d'Avola and Verdicchio to name just a few. Nearly all of Italy's wine regions hide some little-known varieties, just waiting to be discovered, and a new wave of winemakers keen to discover this wealth of local varieties is now emerging.

Founded in 1977 by Giuseppe ("Pin") and Lidia Rivetti, La Spinetta was first known for their production of excellent single-vineyard Moscato d'Asti wines. It is now particularly known for its single-vineyard Barbaresco wines and the Barolo Campe, plus an innovative blend of Nebbiolo and Barbera called Pin.

The Rivetti family believes passionately in the exclusive use of indigenous grapes and in a style that is individual and distinct from what they see as a globalisation of character and taste. They believe in intensive vineyard work, very low yields (17-20 hl/ha), no use of chemicals, pesticides or fertilizers, extensive green harvesting, and in extremely carefully chosen vineyards.

"One of Italy's most fashionable winemakers/proprietors, Giorgio Rivetti displays a masterful touch."

Domenico Clerico began producing wine in 1979 after taking over his father's small 2-hectare vineyard three years earlier. Known as one of the progressive "Barolo Boys", Domenico sought out the best undiscovered plots in Barolo, thus pioneering the idea of single cru wines. In addition to his devotion to single cru vineyards, Domenico championed what is considered a modern style of Barolo, using new burgundy barrels and later barriques to age the wines.

Today, Domenico Clerico is one of the most respected names in all Barolo, and his wines are renowned for both winemaking of the highest quality and for their exceptional expression of terroir.

Began back in 1820, when Giuseppe Sarotto, the founder of the family, arrived in Neviglie from Barbaresco. Today, this 7th generation family estate is one of the largest and most varied in the region, thanks to a set of privately-owned vineyards located in the most famous wine-growing areas of Piedmont. It is one of the best producers in Gavi under the watchful eye of Roberto Sarotto, and his wife Aurora.

The winery believes that good wine is born in the vineyard and evolves in the cellar, which is why one of their main priorities is to take meticulous care of the vineyards. With this in mind, the sustainability of production, understood as the harmonious establishment of the vineyards while respecting the flora and fauna, is essential.

Redento Dogliotti founded the company in the 1940s, selling grapes from their vineyards to big industries producing Moscato d'Asti, a very common practice in those days. Then came a huge leap for the Dogliotti family.

In the late 1970s, the son Romano Dogliotti began to invent his own Moscato, bottling and selling it. A Moscato of new quality was born. They were one of the first independent producers of Moscato d'Asti. La Caudrina was and still is today a producer of essential wine, clean and simple as it should be. This has resulted in a credibility not only for the Dogliotti family but for an appellation.

The wines of Roero have always lived in the shadow of Barolo, but the Correggia winery is a beacon of light. It is acknowledged as not only the best producer in the area, but also as one of the very best northern Italian wineries. Wines like the single-vineyard, Val dei Preti and Rocche d'Ampsej (Nebbiolo) are now as sought after as some of the more highly prized Barolo and Barbaresco, and his entry level nebbiolo (Roero) and Arneis are seriously lovely and inexpensive introductions to their respective varieties.

Known by his peers as "The Comet of Roero", the late Matteo Correggia is regarded as the benchmark wine producer for the Roero region which lies just north of Barolo.

Founded in 1950, the Ruggeri winery produces its sparkling wines from grapes grown in the magnificent hills of Valdobbiadene, known for producing the highest quality grapes in the entire Prosecco Superior DOCG area. This is also the location of the prized Cartizze hill, the most famous cru in the entire area. The constant pursuit of quality has made Ruggeri one of the most important producers of Cartizze sparkling wine.

Ruggeri was the first winery to produce a Prosecco using only grapes from 100-year-old vines and has earned a special classification called "Stella" as a result of earning 10 or more Tre Bicchieri – the highest award a winery can receive in Italy.

ROCCOLO GRASSI

Established in 1996 by Marco and Francesca Satori, Rocolo Grassi has quickly established itself as one of the foremost proponents of quality in Valpolicella, widely praised for its Amarone, Valpolicella and Soave. The winery is focused on producing wines that are modern in style yet “traditional” in both their flavor and character.

When most of the growers in the region are sending their grapes to local co-operatives, Rocolo Grassi is giving full attention to its 14 hectares of vines applying sustainable viticulture practices. Their vision is to harvest quality grapes and to produce relatively low yields of outstanding wine.

The Vivianis are an artisanal wine making couple who are passionate about the wines from their region and partial to the odd fine Burgundy too. From their vineyards in the Mazzano zone of the historical Valpolicella Classico with stunning vistas over the town of Negrar and its valley, they are making some of the most honest, pure and engaging Valpolicella there is. The vines are situated at around 450 metres above sea level, which offers the best possible conditions for cultivation.

It was in 1992 when Claudio Viviani started bottling the produce of the family's vineyard after decades of his father selling in bulk. Despite its relatively small size, Viviani has obtained a place of honor among the best known and most respected artisanal producers of Valpolicella.

Founded in 1936, Cesari is considered a pioneer in Veneto and has played a leading role in raising the profile of Amarone around the world. In the 1970s, the wine was still considered a local specialty and remained little known outside the region. Through hard work and passion, Franco Cesari, the son of the winery's founder, has brought Cesari Amarone to shelves and cellars on five continents and made it one of the first Italian wines to achieve this feat!

The renowned Falkenstein winery, owned by the Pratzner family for 400 years, is located on the orographic left of Val Venosta, on the so-called Rocca del Falco, which dominates the town of Naturno from above.

The company is located close to Mount Sonnenberg and extends with its 12 hectares of vineyards on a hill in a sunny area at 650 meters above sea level. The particular climate, with hot days and cool nights, lends itself perfectly to the cultivation of the Weissburgunder varieties (Pinot Blanc), Blauburgunder (Pinot Noir), Sauvignon and Gewürztraminer, but above all Riesling, so much so that Falkenstein's Riesling is considered one of the best in southern Germany.

Giorgio Rivetti's magic touch with Moscato, Barbera and Nebbiolo in Piedmont took the world by storm. In 2000, he acquired a Tuscan estate, Casanova della Spinetta, located in the hills south of Pisa where the vineyards enjoy the strong summer sun and the soft breezes wafting off the nearby Mediterranean Sea.

The main production of the wine house, which benefits in particular from Giorgio Rivetti's exceptional talent, is Il Nero di Casanova and Chianti Riserva, and most recently added dry rose, all pressed from Sangiovese. La Spinetta Casanova products are pleasant to drink right from the start. Despite their tannin strength, they have cut and style.

The Mocali estate, acquired by the Ciacchi family in the 1950s, is a setting of natural Tuscan beauty where vineyards and olive groves alternate with oak and pine forests. This harmony of man and nature comes through in the delicious, ripe and balanced wines produced here.

The wines are particularly approachable when young, well-structured with ample body and an elegant, minerally character distinct to this growing area. Situated to the southwest of Montalcino at an altitude of 300-350 meters above sea-level on the slopes facing Castiglione del Bosco. The soil is rendered highly mineral; salt owing to the presence of marl and limestone.

Salvioni owns La Cerbaia vineyard in the southeast of the commune, a plot universally recognised as one of the great 'crus' of the village. Here tradition is king. Maceration is as long as 30 days and wines are aged in six 2,000-litre Slovenian oak casks in the domestic cellar of the family home. Aging can be as short as the required two years, or even longer if the vintage allows for it.

What ends up in the bottle are wines with an incredible purity, transparency and elegance. This is accompanied by an underlying structure that comes so naturally from healthy, old vines with low yields. Salvioni's wines are a triumph for the region and the only negative is that there is so little to go around. The Salvioni family represents and reflects the truly artisanal side of fine wine, something that is more of a rarity in this modern world.

From the hills comes a good share of Campania's best wines and among these, the Taburno winery stands out at 350 mt. above sea level. Recently enlarged and modernized, the Taburno winery has become a focal point for the grape growers of the D.O.C. area, for its wine production and promotion.

Quality for the Taburno winery is a result of giving its members the results of the research of its laboratories, where the best varieties are chosen, farmed according to the enological requirements to meet the market demands. The locally grown grapes are farmed on hills mostly made up of volcanic and chalky soils. But good grapes alone are not in themselves a guarantee of high quality wine. That rests with the never ending striving for excellence by the winemakers of Taburno. Taburno has committed it self to combine tradition and modern technology to produce great wines.

SOLLIONE (CESARI WINERY)

Sollione, a winery under the Cesari winery group born in Puglia, Italy. The appellation, Salento IGT, is one of the most commonly used IGT titles in Puglia, southern Italy. The finest and best wines of Apulia grow on the Salento peninsula. Thanks to the mutual proximity of the Adriatic Sea and the Ionian Sea, the nights here cool down to the extent necessary for quality cultivation.

Southern Puglia's star performing DOCs are Primitivo di Manduria and Salice Salentino. Their core grape varieties (Primitivo, Negroamaro and Malvasia Nera) are also key in Salento IGT wines. Gerardo Cesari shows what velvety, harmoniously mild and full-fruity wines can be made from this fascinating grape variety.

The Chiaromonte family has been dedicated to the production of great wines from Puglia since their foundation in 1826, nearly 200 years ago. In recent years, Nicola Chiaromonte, as 3th generation owner and winemaker, has worked hard to expand and improve the quality of their wines to reach internationally recognized standards of the highest quality. A specialist in the Primitivo variety, all of their vines are bush-trained in the ancient, free-standing style known as alberello. As of 2009, all of the vineyards are certified organic. Nicola makes all of his wines exclusively in stainless steel in order to preserve the pure fruit flavors. The grapes are destemmed, then fed by gravity into tanks where they are left to ferment in whole clusters with their own yeasts before they are crushed in hand-cranked presses.

BAGLIO DEL CRISTO DI CAMPOBELLO

The Baglio del Cristo di Campobello project is a visionary one, as its creators, Angelo, Domenico and Carmelo Bonetta, launched it in order to successfully bottle "Sicilianity". This ambitious idea was supported by the invaluable contribution of Riccardo Cotarella, one of Italy's most important enologists. The winery, which is very modern as it was renovated 12 years ago, immediately focused on enhancing the characteristics of an area with a high potential: the chalky limestone hills south of the town of Campobello di Licata.

The vines grow all around the estate, on gentle hills of chalky limestone, at an altitude of 300 metres in the Campobello countryside. The climate in summer is the scorching one typical of the Sicilian hinterland, although softened here by cool breezes coming from the nearby Sicilian Channel. Grillo, Chardonnay, Nero d'Avola, Syrah, Cabernet Sauvignon and Merlot grapes ripen on this beautiful soil. The first harvest was only in 2007, however, in just a few years the winery has been able to establish itself not only on the Sicilian wine scene, but also throughout Italy.

The Cantina Sociale Gallura is located in the town of Tempio Pausania on the foothills of Mount Limbara. This cooperative was founded in 1956 and it currently has 160 producers contributing their grapes. The total area of planted vineyards is about 600 acres. The soil, a mix of sand and rock, is poor, and the vines have to struggle to survive this hostile environment. The limited grape yield offers unique and prized qualities. Most of the properties are planted with Vermentino, Nebbiolo and Moscato varietals.

The strict selection systems, modern winemaking process and aging in barrels, they produce high quality wines with organoleptic characteristics attuned to the changing tastes and needs of consumers. Spearhead of the Cantina Gallura is the "Vermentino di Gallura", the only wine in Sardinia awarded, since 1996, of the aspired Denomination of Origin Controlled and Guaranteed.

SPAIN

Winegrowing Region

Spain, the third-largest wine producer globally with over one million acres of the country covered in vineyards, each showcasing unique viticultural treasures. There are 69 officially recognized wine regions in Spain. The mainstream areas are referred to as Denominaciones de Origen D.O, which are similar to France's appellations, and the wine produced here is carefully regulated for quality according to specific laws.

Prominent among them is the iconic Rioja, famed for its exceptional Tempranillo-based wines. Aragon, though less known, has recently gained recognition for its quality wines, particularly those from Somontano DO and the delightful Garnacha wines from Campo de Borja, Calatayud, and Cariñena DOs. From the effervescent Cava in Penedès to the robust Priorat and the crisp Albariño wines of Rías Baixas, Spain's wine regions offer a remarkable wine adventure.

Pere Ventura's family heritage with Cava dates back to 1872, when his great grandfather, Manuel Montserrat Font, helped produce the first bottles of Cava at Codorniu. The family-based PERE VENTURA FAMILY WINE ESTATES produces and markets its own wines and cavas (sparkling wines), which are known worldwide for their great quality and prestige.

All Pere Ventura Cavas undergo the "Traditional Method" of sparkling wine production, the same method used for Champagne. Grapes are hand harvested and de-stemmed before they undergo a first fermentation in stainless steel tanks at a temperature of 61°F to 64°F. The juice is then clarified and stabilized before undergoing secondary fermentation which takes place in the bottle. The wine is riddled, disgorged and the dosage is added before the bottle is sealed. The minimum aging is 14 months.

MERUM PRIORATI (PERE VENTURA WINERY)

THE ELITE OF PRIORAT - Merum Priorati, located in Porrera, is one of the most important wine estates in Priorat, founded in 2004 by two Catalan families, and located in the east of the appellation around the pretty village of Porrera.

The three vineyard plots (Les Foreses, Plana Marjot and Les Escomelles) cover a total of 103 hectares, but just 29ha are given over to vines, as this is one of the wildest, most rugged terrains where few vines thrive and those that do produce less than 1 kg of grapes per vine (and as low as 250g per vine for the older Garnacha and Cariñena plants). Impeccably made but not over polished, wines are truly hand-made: fermentation is in small, open top vats with long cuvasion, delivering wines which are intense and seriously complex against a backdrop of bright and vibrant modern fruit.

Winemaker: Roger Oferil Coll
Hectares under Vine: 29
Annual Production: 80,000 btl's

The winery has earned gold in all the international competitions in which it has participated since 2018. Grenaches du Monde and Gilbert & Gaillard thus join Decanter World Wine Awards, Mundus Vini, Sakura-Japan Women's Wine Award and Berliner Wein Trophy. The wines are also garnering recognition from professionals in the industry, such as the renowned sommelier Andreas Larsson (Blind Tasted), who also gave them a rating over 90 points.

CELLER CAL PLA

The Sangenis family, one of the oldest grape-growing families in Catalan DOQ Priorat, historically sold their grapes to the local cooperative. In 1996, Joan Sangenis completed his oenology studies, and began Celler Cal Pla to bottle under their own label.

Based in the village of Porrera in Priorat, they own 20 hectares of south facing vineyards (at an altitude of 300-400m and topsoil called Llicorella ) with an average age of 50 years and several small parcels of 100+ year old vines of Garnacha and Carignan. Farming is done organically, harvesting is by hand.

Bodegas Aragonesas was founded in 1984 when several cooperatives in the Campo de Borja region decided to unite to market the wines they were producing. The intervening years have seen this winery grow in prestige and recognition globally due to their Coto de Hayas brand, their star variety Garnacha used in the production of many wines, often originating from extremely old grapevines, and the careful management of their extensive vineyards has not gone unnoticed either.

This bodegas is the biggest producer from Campo de Borja, Aragon and they own the largest Old Vines - between 40-100+ years old -Garnacha in the world (1500 hectares ) making them unique and impossible to compare to any other wine region.

BODEGAS MUGA

Bodegas Muga is a family-owned wine estate, founded in 1932 in the Rioja region of Spain. It is particularly known for its traditional style Reserva wines that are only produced in vintages of utmost quality.

The famous bodega has approximately 250 hectares (617 acres) of vineyards around Rioja a majority of which are around the town of Haro where the winery is based. Fruit for the top wines tends to come from the family's original Baltracones vineyard, where the chalky, alluvial soils are well-suited to Tempranillo and Garnacha. Oak is important in the winemaking process – Muga is one of the few producers in Spain with its own cooperage.

LA RIOJA ALTA

La Rioja Alta is one of the oldest winery that founded in 1890 by a consortium of five families. They combines tradition and innovation in its approach to winemaking. They practise hand harvesting and sold unsuitable berries to large wineries for simpler wines.

What sets this bodega apart from other traditionalists is that the wines succeed in retaining striking vigour and fruit whilst undergoing their lengthy period in cask. They are released for sale only when fully ready to drink and always have an air of graceful maturity about them.

La Rioja Alta does its own coopering in house. Oak raw materials are purchased in the United States and slowly processed in our own cooperage, including "aging" of boards in the open air for two years and burning of barrels.

Serenity. Elegance. Singularity. Timelessness.

These are the words that define the Torre de Oña winery. Torre de Oña S.A. was founded in 1987 as a single estate. In January 1995, this small bodega, with its 50 hectares of vineyards, was purchased by La Rioja Alta S.A. # BODEGAS PACO GARCIA

Bodegas Paco Garcia is a family traditional winery built in 2001 but renewed in 2011. The owners are Paco García and his wife Julia. Those are the ones that built the winery in 2001 but in 2008 their son Bautista Garcia decided to change the philosophy of the wines. Ana Fernandez Bengoa (Juan's wife) joined the company in 2010 after working for 12 years in three other wineries from Rioja, and together they started the youthful Paco García project in 2011 with the aim of making something different, more modern, but always focused on the quality.

"It definitely is a winery to follow with an assured commercial success in the future "

In 1996, Paco Rodero and his wife Conchita Villa made the first harvest of Pago de los Capellanes in Pedrosa de Duero, in the heart of Ribera del Duero. The 272-acre vineyard in an area called "Golden mile", A recent analysis by Ferran Centelles for Jancis Robinson confirms this, based on tasting notes for pinpointing the best vineyard areas in the appellation.

PAGO DE LOS CAPELLANES

Pago de los Capellanes produces a range of estate-bottled wines ranging from juicy, barely oaked reds to this age-worthy Reserva (primarily Tempranillo with a bit of Cabernet Sauvignon) and was recently announced as one of the 100 top wineries in the world by Wine & Spirits magazine.

In 1988, Grupo La Rioja Alta, based in Haro, began researching and analyzing several terroirs in Ribera del Duero in order to find the best area to start a new winery. After much consideration, in 1991 they decided to settle in the town of Anguix, acquiring some vineyards and planting some new ones. The latter, though, did not reached the required quality level until ten years after, in 2001.

More than a quarter of a century after its foundation, it is fair to say that the wines produced by Bodegas Áster have managed to combine tradition and innovation.

LAGAR DE CERVERA (LA RIOJA ALTA WINERY)

SPAIN
RIAS BAIXAS

The winery was purchased by La Rioja Alta in 1988 and is now state-of-the-art in terms of equipment. The estate's vineyards are in the southern section of the Rias Baixas where warmer conditions mean early ripening and good levels. It is hilly country with poor soils giving low yields of high quality grapes. The bodega's 42 hectares constitute the largest holding in this appellation and contribute 80% of the grapes used in production. Today this wine, Lagar de Cervera, ranks among the best in the region and certainly stands at the forefront of the Rosal subzone of the appellation.

GERMANY

Winegrowing Region

German- World famous as the homeland of Riesling. German wine regions are now enjoying a new era of quality winemaking, proving that Germany is so much more than a country that just produces sweet wines. Over 250,000 acres of vineyards stretch across 13 subregions currently growing Riesling, Pinot Blanc, and Pinot Gris.

Germany has become the world's top Riesling producer, developing a wide range of styles from dry and lean-to succulently sweet. The country's cool climate, also means that grapes can have a high natural sweetness, allowing winemakers to produce those delicious sweet wines Germany has always been so famous for. Today, a new generation of ambitious winemakers, who have traveled the world in search of inspiration, are not only turning out some of the finest dry white wines you'll find on the planet but also exquisite Pinot Noir.

Nahe produces the most Riesling and parts of Pfalz, you'll see a strong dominance of red wines, particularly Pinot Noir which is known here as Spätburgunder.

Dönnhoff are based in the Nahe region of Germany, noted for its diverse soils, which are beautifully expressed in Dönnhoff's single vineyard wines. The family winery has existed since the mid-18th century, and in 1971 current owner, Helmut Dönnhoff produced his first vintage. His vintages would in fact become a byword for renowned German Rieslings the world over.

Thanks to the rich volcanic and slate soil, the wines offer distinct minerality and character. With its nine Große Lagen, counted among the absolute finest in the region, the estate today enjoys an excellent international reputation for its grand German Rieslings.

The winery Dr. Wehrheim has produced high quality dry wines since 1920. Traditional grape varieties which grow on unique sites have been vinified in the cellar of the historic Art Nouveau farmyard for four generations. They have been working biodynamically since 2007 and consistently pursue this type of cultivation. Since 2010, all wines of the estate are certified organic. The philosophy of Karl-Heinz Wehrheim: "Offer harmony and balance without being sweet. Embody fullness without being 'fat'. Spicy, mineral and independent taste, without relying on a superficial fruit. Intense and multi-layered in aroma."

"The Dr. Wehrheim is and has been one of the best wineries of the Pfalz and beyond" by Gault Millau 2014

AUSTRIA

Winegrowing Region

What sets Austria apart is that it has made its name from one indigenous grape variety -Grüner Veltliner, Austria's national grape varietal. It is not a piece of news to wine insiders. They both have a similar weightiness and with age, Grüner Veltliner turns round and powerful with a texture that could be similar to Chardonnay.

Austria is made up of nine federal states and viticulture is concentrated in four of them: Lower Austria (Niederösterreich), Vienna, Burgenland, and Styria. Niederösterreich, located northeast of Austria, is the country's largest wine region. It is also the largest quality wine-growing area with eight of the 16 official wine regions (also half of the total production). Grüner Veltliner and Riesling are by far the two main grape varieties.

The soils here are very diverse. One finds Mica-schist in the Bohemian massif in the Kamptal region, but also bedrock weathered soils, covered with a thin coating of humus. The heart of Heiligenstein, an almost ideal partner for top-class Rieslings is a weathered desert sandstone from the Permian. Grüner Veltliner thrives on the gravel soils of Manhartsberg or the partly massive loess deposits that characterize the southern borders of this wine region.

KAMPTAL (NIEDERÖSTERREICH)

- Weingut Schloss Gobelsburg

Schloss Gobelsburg's history traces back to 1171, when the Cistercian monks of the Zwettl monastery acquired their first two vineyards (wines are still made from these single sites today). The castle and its vineyards were added in the eighteenth century, the main building soon after receiving its Baroque transformation on the instructions of one of its many illustrious owners.

As well as Austria's earliest recorded vines, Schloss Gobelsburg can boast a dedication to organic farming that long precedes any modern trends, eschewing chemicals where possible and letting the land speak for itself. Its agriculture is now certified as sustainable, with as little mechanical reliance in the winery as possible.

Winemaker: Michael Moosbrugger
Hectares under Vine: 85
Annual Production: 350,000 blts

A typical Kamptal, but showing a slightly warmer and expressive style of the appellation.
